Thanks Dianne. Let's see if Dan and I can call Pete together next week.

Good afternoon,

I wanted to give you a brief download on the 7/21 Interagency Working Group Principles meeting which was held Monday afternoon (I called in), and highlight several actions items

Shell (Ann Pickard, Executive VP for Upstream Arctic and Dale Snyder, VP Alaska Operations) gave a presentation on their plans for future Chukchi drilling. I have included some interesting facts from Shell's presentation at the end of this email. However, in summary Shell noted they were "in good shape" operationally for the 2015 drilling season in the Chukchi, and are diligently tracking the BOEM revisions to the Chukchi EIS (scheduled to be completed by mid-March and EPA is a participating agency) It was clear the company is going to be very aggressive in accomplishing drilling into hydrocarbon bearing zones in 2015. As a side note I asked Hanh to determine if the management structure of Shell Alaska Ventures had changed given the presenters titles. Hanh did talk with Shell and they do not have an organizational chart that they would share externally, but they did confirm that Pete Slaiby remains our senior executive contact for Alaska work.
